

Queensland History Journal Policy

The Royal Historical Society of Queensland welcomes papers on the history of Queensland as well as the Commonwealth of Australia and adjacent islands of the Pacific. However, unless the topic is of national significance, papers relevant solely to states other than Queensland are not normally published. Authors need not be members of the Society.

Manuscripts should not exceed 6,000 words (including endnotes) and the submission of short papers is encouraged. Papers are editorially reviewed. Peer review is available for academics on request.

Manuscripts may be submitted by email to journal@queenslandhistory.org.au or by hard copy to the Editors, Queensland History Journal, PO Box 12057, Brisbane George Street, Qld, 4003.

They should be typed using double spacing with ample margins. Hard copies should be printed on one side of the page. Maps, photographs or other illustrations may be submitted as hard copies or digitally as jpg or tif files. Further requirements for submission are detailed in the Style Guide which is available at <http://www.queenslandhistory.org.au/StyleGuide.pdf> or on request from the Society.

It is a condition of publication in the Queensland History Journal that the paper has not already been published or is not being published elsewhere. The author warrants to the Society that the article submitted to the Society for publication is an original work and does not contravene the Australian Copyright Act. Copyright in the original copy of any work published in the Queensland History Journal or published by the Society in any other form of work shall vest in and remain with the Society but the author shall have a license to republish the work without permission from the Society

The Editors also welcome letters, particularly relating to papers previously published in the Queensland History Journal to encourage debate and further research. Letters or extracts from them may be published in the Queensland History Journal.

The Queensland History Journal is published quarterly and the Society Bulletin is published monthly from February to December.
